

Since 1982, the Canadian Athlete Insurance Program (CAIP) has become well recognized in providing the most comprehensive insurance protection for sport accident and “overuse” injuries to Canada’s athletes at all levels while “In Canada” and “Out of Canada”.

Explanation of CAIP

Inside Canada coverage provides insurance protection for sport injuries and includes “OVERUSE” coverage, which has been unique to CAIP since the beginning. OVERUSE covers the athletes for chronic type injuries such as tendonitis and stress fractures that happen over a period of time as a result of repetitive activity. The OVERUSE insurance benefit in CAIP is the most popular and sought after insurance benefit amongst Canada’s athletes.

Outside Canada (optional) coverage is 24 hours a day insurance protection for emergency medical and hospital care as the result of an illness or injury. Of course, the CAIP insurance always covers the athletes while participating in their sport. The AXA Assistance Program provides international emergency assistance to CAIP members when travelling outside Canada.
